Zinwave appoints Jeffery Fuller as President, Zinwave Americas

Cambridge, UK - 16 July 2009 – Zinwave, a leading in-building wireless specialist, today announced that it has appointed Jeffery L. Fuller as President, Zinwave Americas. Following a string of successful deployments in States, the appointment has been made to strengthen the presence, support and commitment Zinwave offers to its growing US customer base. Based in Phoenix, Fuller will be responsible for driving the business development, sales and application of Zinwave's US operations and the growing need for the company's in-building wireless technologies in the power generation, commercial, education and healthcare markets.

Fuller brings over 25 years experience to Zinwave with numerous impressive executive management and sales positions including; Regional Sales Manager at Motorola, Vice President Sales and Marketing at EF Johnson and Founder, President and CEO of Pacific Wireless Technologies. Immediately prior to joining Zinwave, Fuller was President/GM Sales at Dekolink Americas Inc. His wide range of in-building wireless expertise places him in excellent stead to drive Zinwave's growth in the wireless US market.

Jonathan Paget, CEO of Zinwave, commented, "Jeffery's appointment reinforces the increasing need for Zinwave solutions in the Americas and reflects our commitment and support to our rapidly growing customer base there." Paget continued, "Jeffery's background in public safety, in-building wireless and carrier sales makes him a significant addition to our highly experienced Americas team. Jeffery will play a key role in taking Zinwave's US operations to the next level and in attacking the next wave of opportunities."
